The Grana Padano is registered as Geographical Indication in Italy since 1954 and as a European Union protected designation of origin (PDO) since 1996.

Grana Padano was developed by monks of Chiaravalle Abbey in the 12th century. It can last a long time without spoiling. It is a semi-fat hard cheese which is cooked and ripened slowly for at least nine months. If it passes quality tests, it is fire-branded with the Grana Padano trademark.

- * Superb both as a table and grated cheese.
- * Ideal for feasts and special occasions. The cheese of choice for true connoisseurs.

- The Consortium

For more than 60 years the Grana Padano Protection Consortium has been comprising Grana Padano producers, cheese maturers and retailers and has been preserving the original recipe and the high-quality standards recognisable in each and every single cheese wheel produced. The Grana Padano Protection Consortium was officially established with the Statute created and registered in Lodi on June 18th 1954. On April 24th 2002, a decree by the Ministry of Agriculture and Forestry formally acknowledged the Consortium's role in preserving Grana Padano and its Protected Designation of Origin (in Italian, Denominazione di Origine Protetta or DOP) status; in promoting it, supporting its development and taking care of its interests and in providing correct information to the public.

- How to store

- * Grana Padano is best stored in a fridge kept at temperatures around around 4° C (39° F).
- * It is best to not store alongside other strong-flavoured cheeses as this may compromise the integrity.
- * Always wrap in a cotton or hemp cloth to prevent the texture from drying out. The cloth must be moist, clean and devoid of detergents' odours. Alternatively, you can opt for a good quality plastic freezer bag.

To celebrate The Italian Cuisine Week, Grana Padano Brand proposed a Cocktail Menu based on this cheese at l'Osteria - Eataly Paris Marais (November 23rd, 2021). Created by Italian Chef Denny IMBROISI
